

Speaker / Guest Introduction

Behavior science can help explain why young people do what they do. But understanding the research and knowing what to do when you're actually standing in your kitchen, classroom, or intervention room are two very different things.

Tamara Braxton, M.Ed., works at the intersection of both.

Tamara is an educator, behavior specialist, parent mentor, mom, and founder of BradAlton Behavior Institute. With more than 20 years in education and current experience on a middle school behavior intervention team, she brings together what behavioral research tells us, what she sees working with students, and what she has learned applying those same principles in her own parenting.

As the creator of Middle School Mayhem™ and SUCCESS in ISS™, Tamara specializes in making behavior science practical, helping parents and behavior intervention teams understand what's underneath behavior and, most importantly, know what to do next.

Please welcome Tamara Braxton!
